€128.00

Product no.: IN-953858

François Pompon contributed significantly to the fame of Auguste Rodin's sculpture studio for 15 years. He developed his distinctive style and, with his Polar Bear, created the unsurpassed prototype of an animal sculpture that simultaneously exudes power and modernity. The Metropolitan Museum of Art places the Polar Bear at the centre of its collection as a milestone of modern sculpture. Original: Marble, 1923-1933, among others Musée des Beaux-Arts, Dijon and Museum of Modern Art, New York City.

Sculpture in polymer cast in metal look. Size 10.5 x 20 x 7 cm (h/w/d). Weight 0.7 kg.
